

Maybe I should lead with this! Coffee and donuts while supplies last.

After taking stock of what is available, it became clear that more space was needed. The garage sale has now become a warehouse sale at 1414 West Broadway just east of the Casey's on the northeast side of 16th and Broadway. The new venue is climate controlled and has ample parking for everything up to and including trailers.

Words cannot describe the amount of items that are for sale. There are quadcopters, airplanes ready to fly, airplanes in the box; many with associated motors, speed controls, and servos taped to the boxes. There are servos, speed controllers, motors, and Spektrum receivers almost all of which are new. There are transmitters including Spektrum models DX6, DX7, and DX8. There are chargers, power supplies and tools. The planes are very clean and the majority of them have no damage. This sale is a must see and there is no admission fee. Also, as an added attraction, there will be a 1/2 scale Spacewalker on display. This is indeed a rare airplane since it is 1 of three of these kits. It is well worth coming just to see the airplane.
